PRESS RELEASE

Fraud Examiner occupation now recognised as a priority/scarce skill

For Immediate Release | 4 September 2019

The ACFE SA has just been informed that the occupation Fraud Examiner has been registered by the Insurance SETA as a priority/scarce skill.

We'd like to thank our members in the short-term and assurance industry for their assistance during this process and for making this notch under the belt possible.

Due to this new development, Fraud Examiners are not only recognised by the SETA as a profession, but now also recognised as a scarce skill occupation due to SETA's realisation that specialised skills are needed to fight fraud. Additionally, the Fraud Examiner occupation is registered under the Top 10 Sectoral Priority Occupations for 2019/2020 as set out by this SETA.

Insurance-company employees who have been involved in fraud prevention, detection, and/or investigation, now have an opportunity to apply for funding from INSETA in order to get their employees to write the CFE International exam.

Thank you to everyone for your support and assistance. We trust that you will be just as excited about this new development as we are. Keep a lookout for what lies ahead.
